Abstract:

This report documents widespread repression, harassment, and human rights violations committed by the Serbian police and other state authorities in Kosova between 21 April and 28 April 1996. Following the murder of the Albanian student Armend Selim Daci, a series of killings, bomb explosions, arson attacks, and other violent incidents occurred under officially “unknown circumstances”. These events were followed by large-scale police raids, arrests, interrogations, beatings, confiscation of property, and intimidation directed primarily against the Albanian population. The report records, in chronological order, all known victims, detainees, and affected individuals, including children, women, elderly persons, political activists, teachers, journalists, and humanitarian workers, based on information collected by the Council for the Defense of Human Rights and Freedoms.

Introduction

This document presents information on the widespread repression and harassment carried out by the Serbian police and other authorities in Kosova from 21 April until 28 April 1996. The information was collected and documented by the Council for the Defense of Human Rights and Freedoms (CDHRF) in Prishtina and reflects reported incidents of violence, arbitrary arrest, ill-treatment, destruction of property, and political persecution directed mainly against the Albanian civilian population.

Background and initial events

After the Albanian student Armend Selim Daci (born 1976) was murdered by the Serb Zlatko Jovanovic on 21 April 1996 in Prishtina, five killings of Serbs and two bomb explosions followed. In one of these bomb explosions, an Albanian child was deprived of life, and three more children were wounded. All these incidents occurred “in yet unknown circumstances”, although the media and some Serbian political parties hurried to blame “Albanian separatists” and did not hesitate to label them as “terrorists”.

Killings and violent incidents on 22 April 1996

On Monday, 22 April, at around 9:00 p.m., unknown persons killed with machine guns, in the café “Čakor” in Dečan, the waitress Stana Radusinovic (48), the guests Blagoje Okulic from the village of Boleq, and Gjorgje Dragic (39) from Pančeva. Branko Bibic was badly wounded. All three men were employees of “Unikop” in Prishtina.

Almost at the same time, near Mitrovica, in a police car, Dragana Neshic (19), a waitress from Prishtina, was killed. The driver, Slobodan Dudic (38), an employee of the SIA in Suhareka, was slightly wounded.

At the same time in Shtime, the policeman Milenko Vucic (24), from the village of Brusi in Serbia, was killed.

Near the railway station of Peja, the policemen Safet Kocan (26), from Peja, and Zoran Dashic (26), from the village of Gorazhdec in the Peja district, were killed.

Explosion and police actions on 27 April 1996

On Saturday, 27 April 1996, at around 3:00 a.m., a heavy explosion occurred in the pit of the construction enterprise owned by Ekrem Kryeziu from the village of Dushanova, near Prizren, on the Prizren–Gjakova road. Immediately afterwards, the police blocked this section of the road.

From 5:00 a.m., the siren of a police car woke the inhabitants of the village, creating panic and fear, particularly among children. Regarding this incident as well, the Serbian daily newspaper “Jedinstvo” of Prishtina, without waiting for any official statement, attempted to blame “Albanian separatists”, admitting that the explosion was aimed at the home of Slavko Shqekiq, whose son is the commander of the local police station of Prizren.

Arson and destruction of property on 27 April 1996

On the same day, 27 April, during the night of the Muslim feast of Kurban Bajram, in the center of Prishtina, next to Radio–TV Prishtina, which since 1990 has been under the control of Serbs and Montenegrins, a large fire broke out and affected six private Albanian handicraft shops.

On Saturday evening, in the village of Zllopek, in the Peja district, the home of Avdyl Daci and Xhavit Daci, together with all its furniture, burned down under mysterious circumstances.

Bomb explosion involving children on 28 April 1996

On Sunday, 28 April, at around 6:00 p.m., four Albanian children were seriously wounded in a bomb explosion in the village of Lumëmadh (Vushtrri), near the Prishtina–Mitrovica road.

Nexhat Rifat Hetemi (born 1984), a sixth-grade pupil of the “Migjeni” primary school in the village of Stanovci i Epërm, died on the way to the hospital.

The following children were badly wounded:

Arsim Sahit Hetemi (8),
Fatmir Sahit Hetemi (13),
Xhavit Ahmet Hetemi (15).

The children had been putting cattle out to pasture in a meadow near the road when an explosive device, believed to have been a grenade, was thrown from a car. After the explosion, the device spread a very bad smell.

Beginning of mass police raids and arrests

In the meantime, the Serbian police carried out numerous raids, arrests, and acts of ill-treatment against Albanians as a consequence of these events.

According to information received, the following persons were affected:

In the district of Deçan:

Zenun Hasan Mazrekaj,
Shefqet Ismajli,
Abdullah Gjikokaj,
Ibrahim Ibërhysaj,
Naim Kuçi,
Ibrahim Mushkolaj and his three sons:
Halit Mushkolaj,
Faik Mushkolaj,
Edison Mushkolaj (17),
Kushtrim Mushkolaj (11),
Himë Mushkolaj,
Ibish Mushkolaj,
Skifter Mushkolaj,
Ramë Mushkolaj,
Dardan Gjikokaj,
Florim Ibërhysaj.

Note on arrests of Serbian citizens

As far as is known, the only Serb who was arrested during this period was Zlatko Jovanovic from Prishtina, the murderer of the Albanian student Armend Selim Daci.

Incidents on 21 April 1996

Abstract

This report documents the widespread repression, harassment, and killings perpetrated by Serbian police and other authorities in Kosovo from 21–28 April 1996, following the murder of the Albanian student Armend Selim Daci. The incidents include targeted killings, bomb explosions, arson attacks, arbitrary arrests, physical ill-treatment, confiscations of passports and property, and intimidation of Albanian civilians, including children, journalists, and political activists. Hundreds of Albanians were affected across districts including Prishtina, Mitrovica, Ferizaj, Peja, Viti, and Shtime. The report also highlights systematic attempts to blame Albanians for violence they did not commit.

Summary

From 21–28 April 1996, the Serbian police and authorities in Kosovo engaged in systematic repression against Albanians. Following the murder of Armend Selim Daci, multiple killings of Serbs and bombings occurred, yet Albanians were widely targeted for harassment, arbitrary arrests, ill-treatment, and property seizures. Children, students, teachers, journalists, and political activists were affected. Hundreds of individuals across multiple districts suffered violence and intimidation. The report documents the names of victims, families raided, passports confiscated, and public spaces controlled. These actions demonstrate a coordinated pattern of ethnic targeting and repression during this period in Kosovo.
